

[DRAFT PLACEHOLDER] Chair-side: Client Conversations That Build Trust

Marketing: replace this stub with the final conversation and product-recommendation script. Do not treat this as final copy.

Opening the door

- ? "I've noticed some changes here - have you noticed too?"
- ? "Your scalp looks a little different from last time - has anything changed for you?"
- ? Avoid: "You're losing your hair" / "That doesn't look right."

If they want a name for it

"That is exactly the kind of question a trichologist or GP can answer properly. What I can do today is describe what I see and help you decide the next step."

Product and service language (stub)

- ? Match the concern you can see to an over-the-counter or salon service you are trained to offer.
- ? Set a time frame: many home-care changes need several weeks, not one wash.
- ? Do not prescribe. Do not promise a cure.

When they become emotional

- ? Acknowledge: "I can see this is upsetting, and that is understandable."
- ? Offer a quieter moment if you can.
- ? Do not minimise and do not promise regrowth.

Referral as support

"A specialist who sees this every day can give you a clearer picture. I will still look after your hair in the salon - this is an extra pair of eyes, not me stepping away."
